ORIGIN: Sweden.

DATE OF PUBLICATION OF THE ORIGINAL VALID STANDARD: 25.03.2003.

UTILIZATION: Hunting dog.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SUMMARY: The Jämthund was only recognized in 1946, although it is a very ancient type of dog that has been known since the North of Sweden was populated. The reason for the late recognition is that the smaller Norwegian Elkhound and the Jämthund were judged as the same breed. This situation eventually turned out to be impossible. The Jämthund is mainly used for hunting elk but it has also been used for bear and lynx, particularly in earlier times. Hence it has to be very strong and of great endurance.

GENERAL APPEARANCE: Large, rectangular spitz, clean-cut, strong, substantial but also agile and with a good stature. Body must not give the impression of being long, nor be too heavy.

BEHAVIOUR / TEMPERAMENT: Courageous and energetic but also stoically calm.

HEAD: Clean-cut and longish, proportionally broad between the ears.

CRANIAL REGION:

Skull: Slightly arched.

Stop: Well defined but not too deep.

FACIAL REGION:

Muzzle: Muzzle, measured from stop to nose, slightly shorter than from stop to occiput. Evenly tapering towards tip of nose. Muzzle must not be snipy, neither when viewed from above or from the side. Nasal bridge straight, broad and strong, nose wide.

Lips: Tight fitting.

Jaws/Teeth: Scissors bite.

Cheeks: Clean.

Eye: Slightly oval in shape, brown with keen but calm expression.

Ear: High set, perfectly erect, pointed and sensitive in use, slightly longer than width at base. Inside of ears well covered with hair.

NECK: Long, clean-cut, powerful with good reach.

BODY: Powerful and clean-cut, slightly longer than height at withers.

Topline: Straight and slightly sloping from withers to croup.

Loin: Broad and well developed.

Croup: Broad and only slightly sloping.

Chest: With good depth and well sprung ribs.

Underline and Belly: Belly slightly tucked up.

TAIL: Set high, of medium length and even thickness. Carried curled, but not tightly twisted over or close on the back. Dense coat, but without fringe.
